New Holland School Girl Auto Victim

MISS MAXEY, DAUGHTER OF PASTOR, DIES

Fractured Skull Causes Death
30 Minutes After Accident
Near Home.

Prudence Maxey, 14-year-old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Tibbs Maxey of New Holland, was almost instantly killed Wednesday about 3 p. m. when she rode her bicycle into the path of a passing truck.

The accident happened at what is known as Johnson's Crossing, which is just east of New Holland and within about 200 yards of her home, in the Church of Christ parsonage of which her father is the pastor.

Miss Maxey was a freshman in the New Holland high school and a very popular girl, and upon returning from school had donned a pair of overalls belonging to her brother and had gone to the home of Charles Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watson, neighbors of the Maxey's, to ride her friend's bicycle. Both Charles Watson and his mother witnessed the fatal accident.

The truck which struck the girl was owned by the Anheuser-Busch Co., of Columbus, and was driven by T. C. Snyder. He was enroute to Washington, D. C. The driver brought his car to a stop as soon as possible and did all that was possible for him to do. He assisted in carrying the girl to her home where upon examination it was discovered that she had suffered a fractured skull. She died within 30 minutes after being struck.

No bones about the girl's body were broken and her only injury was the fracture which proved fatal. The impact with the truck threw the body some distance but it is thought that the fracture was caused from the impact with the truck rather than when the body fell.

The remains were removed to the funeral parlors of the Kirk Undertaking Co., of New Holland, where friends may call to view them.

Besides her parents two sisters and five brothers survive.

Funeral services for Miss Maxey will be held at the Church of Christ on Friday at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Crouse of Hillsboro, a friend of the family will officiate. Burial will be made in the New Holland cemetery.

Lest We Forget

The sunshine and rains of a dozen years have fallen on the graves of our World War dead. Fresh-growing grass now softens the outlines of these halcyon moments of earth and time's kindly hand has softened the ache of our hearts. But the heroic sacrifice of those who repose beneath is not hidden by the grass and our sorrow and reverence for the fallen is not lessened by the passage of years. When we stand by the graves of the country's dead defenders on Memorial Day this year we feel with new force the significance and the glory of the lives they gave so gallantly.

In our services and ceremonies on Memorial Day we will try to give outward expression of the feelings which move within us. Let us strive to make our observances adequate. The observance of Memorial Day is now almost entirely in the hands of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary. We must lead. We must show the way to our communities in the annual services of commemoration and make the patriotic spirit of our glorious dead breathe again to inspire the living. With the bright red poppy of remembrance glowing above our hearts and with love and pride throbbing within let us carry out our Memorial Day observances this year in a way which will move the entire nation to a deeper realization of the day's true meaning.

MARY VIRGINIA McCRAE,
National President American Legion Auxiliary.

GRAF RADIOS ITS POSITION

Zeppelin Is Now 3,300 Miles
From Havana on Flight To Lakehurst.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, May 29.—A radio message received here today from the Graf Zeppelin gave the latest position of the airship on her flight between Pernambuco, Brazil, and Havana, Cuba.

The message said: "Position at 600 G. M. T. (2 a. m., E. D. T.) 02:40 North latitude 42:30 West longitude. All well."

This would place the Graf Zeppelin 920 miles north of Pernambuco by air line. The airship, however, had covered more mileage than this because of the swing taken to Natal and around Cape St. Roque, where the South American coast slants sharply westward.

Dr. Eckner was continuing on a northwesterly course toward the West Indies. The distance the Graf will have to cover from Pernambuco to Havana is approximately 4,200 miles. This may vary with any wide swings that might be made by the airship.

This would mean the Graf has nearly 3,300 miles to go—about a 48 hour run at 70 mile cruising speed—to bring the airship over the Cuban capital Friday forenoon, with hours of daylight to spare in event of curtailed speed.

Miss Eleanor Hawisher of Lima is the guest of Mrs. George Critch of S. Court-st.

Every Veteran Should Answer Friday's Call

There are so few veterans of the Civil War yet with us, that it's up to every veteran of the War with Spain and each veteran of the Civil War to turn out Thursday and pay tribute to those comrades who have gone beyond. Veterans of all wars, the Revolution, the War of 1812, and our lesser and our later wars, will all have one bit of common ground to stand upon when they answer the muster that will bring all together. None of them ever fought on a losing side.

Especially should ex-service men of the World War, begin paying much attention to Memorial Day. Tomorrow is a good time to start. Turn out at the great celebration to be held to-morrow morning whether you belong to the American Legion or not. And if not, why not?

HOUSE, SENATE TRY TO FORCE TARIFF ACTION

Use Arbitration To Try To Eliminate Forbidden Portions of Bill.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
WASHINGTON, May 29.—Avoing determination to enact the tariff bill before Congress adjourns, House and Senate conferees resumed their arbitration sessions today to eliminate "forbidden portions" from the new flexible tariff clause.

The original compromise, vesting in the United States Tariff Commission the power of making recommendations for specific rate changes, subject to the president's approval or veto within 60 days, also gave the commission power to promulgate the proposed changes if the president failed to act. This latter provision was held "illegal" by Vice-president Curtis and the whole tariff report tossed back into conference.

ELIMINATE LANGUAGE
The conferees were expected to eliminate the objectionable language and immediately report their findings to the Senate. If they follow this procedure, the amended compromise would merely direct the commission to submit to approve or veto the proposed changes.

Another provision of the clause would virtually force the president to act within sixty days just the same. This was a phrase directing the commission to report its findings and all evidence to Congress within sixty days. If the president had failed to make this information public within that period.

No parliamentary objection has been raised. Against this feature and undoubtedly objection would fail, since it merely calls for a report to Congress.

The provision, however, would have a tendency to force the president to act. Since if he did not, he would be subject to criticism on Capitol Hill when the commission's report was made public.

It was pointed out that a Republican president could scarcely ignore a specific recommendation for greater tariff protection to either American industry or agriculture, if his failure to act was to be subjected to publicity. This provision naturally would not affect his power to veto the recommendation, if he so decided.

Settlement of the flexible compromise was but a fraction of the problem facing the tariff champions. The conferees have separated their findings into two reports, with the flexible clause in the final report. Their first report, not yet acted upon, carried many hundred items, while but eight important items were included in the second report.

DECORATING GROUP HANDS IN REPORT

We have made an earnest effort to place a flag upon the grave of every soldier of all the wars. This is a hard task, not having a list of them and their location. We no doubt have missed some. COMMITTEE

Berger Will Before Core

TO ADVISE SOVIET ON RAILROADS

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern Railroad, photographed in Chicago while enroute to Russia, where he has been commissioned by the soviet government to make a survey to modernization and re-organization of the railroad systems of that country. Mr. Budd, whose home is in St. Paul, Minn., will be accompanied by his son, John, a Yale graduate.

Common Pleas Judge Harry S. Core of Ottawa, O., Putnam-co., was hearing the case of the will of the late Frank P. Berger Thursday in which the city of Circleville is bequeathed a sum of money for use as a hospital in memory of Mr. Berger. The trustee of the will charge that the city failed to comply by a provision in the will thus turning the money back into the estate.

A large part of the morning was spent with Meeker Terwilliger, an attorney for the city, explaining facts to prove the city had complied with the will and should be given the money.

Irvine F. Snyder and C. A. Leist represent the trustees of the estate in the case with City Solicitor Paul E. Adkins, George G. Adkins and Meeker Terwilliger attorneys for the city.

Judge Core made short work of the suit of Alvin E. "Kitty" Fissell against Milt Morris, administrator of the estate of the late W. W. "Caddy" Miller when he dismissed the suit stating in an entry that the common pleas court has no jurisdiction over the case.

The plaintiff has two alternatives, it is understood, one of which is to take the case to probate court and the other to appeal to the court of appeals.

The defendant was represented by Barton Walters and C. A. Welldon, while Charles Dinebach, George Adkins and Tom A. Henick were counsel for the plaintiff.

Lone Masked Bandit Robs Passengers Of Fast Western Train

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 29

Nearly every available policeman in this region today was searching for a lone masked bandit who bombarded The Chief, crack Santa Fe train, robbed several passengers including two Hollywood celebrities, and escaped with approximately $12,000 in cash and jewelry.

At the point of his revolver the holdup man relieved Marian Nixon, film star of two diamond rings valued at $11,000. One of Miss Nixon's rings was described as one of the most valuable in the film colony.

The screams of Ruby Keeler, actress wife of Al Jolson, frightened the bandit and he dropped from the train with his pockets bulging with loot after raiding several sleeping compartments.

Going through the sleeping compartments of the Chicago bound train, the bandit roused several of the occupants and quietly relieved them of valuable rings and all available cash.

He was described as a tall young man of sandy complexion and wore a handkerchief about the lower portion of his face.

Answering a knock at her compartment door, Marian Nixon, otherwise known as Mrs. Edward Hillman, wife of a Chicago merchant, was relieved of two diamond rings valued at $11,000 and $400 in cash. Hillman likewise lost some cash to the highwayman. One of Miss Nixon's rings was the famous four and one-fourth karat diamond, a gem that is known as one of the rarest in the entire film colony.

Another passenger, Fred Lehman, Penobscott Building, Detroit, Mich., after opening his door, contributed $175 in cash to the masked bandit.

From there the bandit entered the drawing room of Ruby Keeler, actress and wife of Al Jolson, but Miss Keeler reported that he left before obtaining any of her valuables.

Conductor Vierling was held up by the bandit when he met him in the narrow passageway of the compartment car and he was relieved of an unknown amount of cash. The bandit then dropped to the ground at a lonely spot near the city limits and disappeared.

Police, believing that the robbery was carefully planned, were combing the city and its environs for the bandit.

The A. W. Burns Construction Co., of Columbus, doing such fine work on the Scioto Trail south of this city, was the low bidder for paving section B of the CCC highway near Washington C. H. according to bids which were opened in the state highway office. The bid for the work was $106,547.34, and that of Newell and Smith, doing the work on section A of the highway was $6,559.70 more.

Burns was also low on the job in Licking-co., although it is thought if the CCC job is let to that company, it will begin the job as soon as the Scioto Trail is completed.

Common Pleas Judge Harry S. Core of Ottawa, O., Putman-co., was hearing the case of the will of the late Frank P. Berger Thursday in which the city of Circleville is bequeathed a sum of money for use as a hospital in memory of Mr. Berger. The trustee of the will charge that the city failed to comply with a provision in the will thus turning the money back into the estate.

A large part of the morning was spent with Meeker Terwilliger, an attorney for the city, explaining facts to prove the city had complied with the will and should be given the money.

Irvine F. Snyder and C. A. Leist represent the trustees of the estate in the case with City Solicitor Paul E. Adkins, George G. Adkins and Meeker Terwilliger attorneys for the city.

Judge Core made short work of the suit of Alvin E. "Kitty" Fissell against Milt Morris, administrator of the estate of the late W. W. "Caddy" Miller when he dismissed the suit stating in an entry that the common pleas court has no jurisdiction over the case. The plaintiff has two alternatives, it is understood, one of which is to take the case to probate court and the other to appeal to the court of appeals.

The defendant was represented by Barton Walters and C. A. Welton, while Charles Dresbach, George Adkins and Tom A. Renick were counsel for the plaintiff.

Lone Masked Bandit Robs Passengers Of Fast Western Train

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 29—Nearly every available policeman in this region today was searching for a lone masked bandit who bombarded The Chief, crack Santa Fe train, robbed several passengers including two Hollywood celebrities, and escaped with approximately $12,000 in cash and jewelry.

At the point of his revolver the holdup man relieved Marian Nixon, film star of two diamond rings valued at $11,000. One of Miss Nixon's rings was described as one of the most valuable in the film colony.

The screams of Ruby Keeler, actress wife of Al Jolson, frightened the bandit and he dropped from the train with his pockets bulging with loot after raiding several sleeping compartments. Going through the sleeping compartments of the Chicago bound train, the bandit roused several of the occupants and quietly relieved them of valuable rings and all available cash.

He was described as a tall young man of sandy complexion and wore a handkerchief about the lower portion of his face.

Answering a knock at her compartment door, Marian Nixon, otherwise known as Mrs. Edward Hillman, wife of a Chicago merchant, was relieved of two diamond rings valued at $11,000 and $400 in cash. Hillman likewise lost some cash to the highwayman. One of Miss Nixon's rings was the famous four and one-fourth karat diamond, a gem that is known as one of the rarest in the entire film colony.

Another passenger, Fred Lenman, Penobscot Building, Detroit, Mich., after opening his door, contributed $175 in cash to the masked bandit.

From there the bandit entered the drawing room of Ruby Keeler, actress and wife of Al Jolson, but Miss Keeler reported that he left before obtaining any of her valuables.

Conductor Vierling was held up by the bandit when he met him in the narrow passageway of the compartment car and he was relieved of an unknown amount of cash. The bandit then dropped to the ground at a lonely spot near the city limits and disappeared.

Police, believing that the robbery was carefully planned, were combing the city and its environs for the bandit.

CONFERENCE PASSES UNIFORM AUTOMOBILE ROBBERY RULES

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
WASHINGTON, May 28.—Striking at one of the most serious organized activities of the day, the national conference on street and highway safety has expressed approval of the uniform motor vehicle anti-theft act, enactment of which will be proposed to legislatures in most states of the country.

A FAMILY DOCTOR'S LAXATIVE IS BEST

Your health is too important! You cannot afford to experiment with your delicate bowels when coated tongue, bad breath, headache, gas, nausea, feverishness, lack of appetite, no energy, etc., warn of constipation. This applies not only to grown people, but more particularly to children. That's why a family doctor's laxative is always the safe choice.

Thousands of automobiles, particularly of the low-priced type, are stolen annually and disposed by "fences" which are part of the criminal rings, in sections of the country far removed from those where they are stolen. In many large cities thousands of used cars which have been stolen, their identification marks altered, are sold, according to traffic conference authorities.

Several effective means of meeting the situation are contained in the model law, which provides for state registration of all motor vehicles. Before a car may be registered the applicant must prove title to the machine. Penalties are provided for the operation of unregistered automobiles. Certificates of titles must be delivered to a new owner when a machine is disposed of.

Hitting directly at the "fence" or other dealers in stolen machines, the law provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person from and after the date of this act to carry on or conduct the business of buying, selling or detailing in used motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers, unless licensed so to do by the department under the provisions of the act except that any manufacturer or importer of motor vehicles or his subsidiary or selling agent may buy or take in trade and sell any used motor vehicle of his own without such license."

In order to obtain a license from the state government the dealer must establish that he plans to conduct a legitimate business and show to the satisfaction of the licensing authority his reputation and standing in the community.

Accurate reports of stolen or recovered motor vehicles by sheriffs, police officers or other peace officers are required in the proposed act. These reports must be submitted to the state official in charge and there will be interchange of information.

Penalties are provided for fraudulently altering or destroying the serial number of a motor vehicle, or for offering for sale any vehicle the motor number of which has been altered. The law makes it a violation to sell or otherwise transfer a car which the seller believes or has reason to believe has been stolen.

Sentences of up to 5 years with fines of $5,000 maximum are provided for violation of the act.

Battered Tanker Cheats Davy Jones

Battered and almost cut in two is the tanker W. W. Bruce after its collision with the tanker Scottish Maiden, which almost ripped away fore section of the Bruce off the New Jersey coast. It was at first thought that the vessel would sink, and all ships nearby rushed to her aid. She succeeded in limping to a point near the Narrows, where she dropped anchor. The Scottish Maiden, after rendering assistance, proceeded to Newport News, Va., for repairs.

WASHINGTON—Important proposals to check the alarming increase of automobile accidents which last year caused 31,000 deaths and $2,000,000,000 economic loss, were before the national conference on street and highway safety today.

Estimates place the motor fatalities since 1920 at more than 169,000, the injured at 6,000,000 or more than the total waste from property, loss of labor time and doctor's bills at undoubtedly in excess of $6,000,000,000.

These appalling losses have been due to many causes the traffic experts admitted—speed, lack of uniformity in traffic regulations, untrained and physically defective drivers, criminal negligence, use of machines so mechanically defective they should be barred from highway, narrow streets

Society Women Revive Old-Time Interest in Culinary Art

Back-to-kitchen movement gains ground among "best people" everywhere

Those who decry the encroachments of the Jazz age upon our domestic institutions may take consolation in the present widespread interest in matters culinary.

"Store cakes" and products of the bakery round the corner are seldom served these days to company. Instead, it is usually a cake prepared by the hostess' own hands which is featured in the afternoon tea or bridge, or with the dessert at dinner.

"What marvelous angel food—where did you get the recipe?" asked the writer only yesterday, when she dropped in for one of Mrs. B's weekly "at homes." And Mrs. B's answer was illuminating. "From the very same cook book that you use, my dear. There's really nothing remarkable about the recipe, but I'll admit that my new gas range is a marvelous baker."

Probably the greatest influence in the revival of interest in cake-baking and other forms of cookery is the tremendous advancement in the design of gas ranges.

It is well-known that a high percentage of all baking failures are not due to any lack of skill in mixing the cake, but to a "balky" oven. But now, in the new Estate Gas Range, we have an oven which is infallible—an oven in which it is no trick at all to turn out cakes, pies, biscuits, as perfect in color, shape and texture as the beautiful color pictures in the magazines.

Absolute uniformity of oven heat is the reason. There are no "hot spots" in the Estate Fresh Air Oven. Built with a double wall all around, on the same principle as a double boiler, it heats evenly on all sides, top and bottom.

Baking, no matter where it is placed in the kitchen, no more straw-testing, no more pan shifting, comes out evenly baked and browned. "Luck" is eliminated—perfect results, every time, are assured.

Let us show you the new Estates and explain their many fine points. No obligation to purchase, of course.

BERGER HOSPITAL SOIL IS HAULED

Flower Beds Are Filled and Grounds Give Appearance of Landscaping.

Two flower beds on the grounds at the Berger hospital have been filled with soil, and will soon be ready for planting. This dirt, the best to be had, was hauled to the hospital by Ed Helwagen, free of charge, as his gift to the new institution.

The soil, of which a number of loads were needed, was taken from the Stump-D'Arcy gravel washer on the river road. The flower beds are round. One is 50 feet and the other 30 feet across.

These beds are the first step toward landscaping the hospital grounds, and have given the first appearance of completion to the site.

Ford owners prefer Sohio 3 1/3 to 1 over any other gasoline!

MORE than 20,000 owners of Ford cars (both Model A and T) were asked recently: "What gasoline do you use?" The answers left no doubt which motor fuel is Ohio's favorite. Regular Sohio users numbered 3,502. The four next most popular brands combined failed to equal Sohio's total.

This survey, covering 93,694 Ohio motorists, was conducted by the R. L. Polk Company, an organization having no connection with any gasoline producer or distributor. Here's the score:

Statewide Gasoline Survey — Ford Owners in Ohio

What's the Secret of Sohio's Popularity?

That's evidence you can't afford to ignore. There must be something about Sohio Ethyl which gets an even greater-than-ordinary response from that great little Ford motor.

There is! Even without Ethyl, Sohio would be an outstanding motor fuel. With Ethyl it becomes the perfect anti-knock fuel for which modern motors are specifically designed.

Try it in your car. You'll get that thrill of super-performance which is making Sohio Ethyl the most widely used motor fuel, by far, in this State.

These appalling losses have been due to many causes the traffic experts admitted—speed, lack of uniformity in traffic regulations, untrained and physically defective drivers, criminal negligence, use of machines so mechanically defective they should be barred from highway, narrow streets and highways, and drunkenness. Illustrating the variance in the regulations pertaining to automobile driving, should a motorist begin a trip at the nation capital and proceed strictly on the Washington traffic code, he might be arrested 289 times, serve weeks in jail and pay $500 or more in fines, if the officers of communities through which he passed decided to arrest him.

"Take the case of a motorist driving from Washington to San Francisco. Fancy how many hundreds of different traffic regulations would be encountered," a traffic official added.

"Then judge for yourself one of the causes for the frightful loss of life and property from traffic accidents."

Of particular importance is uniformity in traffic regulations in large centers of population which lie on state lines where a driver is confronted with the laws of two or more states. Such centers are New York, parts of New England, Washington, St. Louis, Cincinnati, St. Paul and Minneapolis, Kansas City and many others.

Immediately on the adjournment of the conference tomorrow representatives of the various states will return to their homes and launch a drive for the adoption of the uniform traffic code by the legislatures and city governments. Emphasis will be placed on the registration of drivers, drivers examination the motor theft law, inspection and condemnation of defective motor cars and other uniform regulations.

Officials and experts who are attending the 1930 conference were convinced real progress in the reducing of the motor accident hazard would be accomplished in the next year or two. The educational work started by conferences in the past was said to be taking excellent fact throughout the country, with state and municipal officials agreed that it is essential that drastic action be taken to make the highways safe for the traveling public.

Ford owners prefer Sohio 3 1/2 to 1 over any other gasoline!

MORE than 20,000 owners of Ford cars (both Model A and T) were asked recently: "What gasoline do you use?" The answers left no doubt which motor fuel is Ohio's favorite. Regular Sohio users numbered 3,502. The four next most popular brands combined failed to equal Sohio's total.

This survey, covering 93,694 Ohio motorists, was conducted by the R. L. Polk Company, an organization having no connection with any gasoline producer or distributor. Here's the score:

Statewide Gasoline Survey — Ford Owners in Ohio
Number of Ford Owners Interviewed—20,028—Number Stating Brand Preference—12,301—Where Interviewed—Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron, Canton, Youngstown, Lima, Toledo, Portsmouth, Zanesville.

What's the Secret of Sohio's Popularity?

That's evidence you can't afford to ignore. There must be something about Sohio Ethyl which gets an even greater-than-ordinary response from that great little Ford motor.

There is! Even without Ethyl, Sohio would be an outstanding motor fuel. With Ethyl it becomes the perfect anti-knock fuel for which modern motors are specifically designed.

Try it in your car. You'll get that thrill of super-performance which is making Sohio Ethyl the most widely used motor fuel, by far, in this State.

MEMORIAL DAY DEBTS Patriotism is a virtue of many phases. The dead whom the nation honors on Memorial Day gave their lives in carrying out one phase of it—fighting bravely at their country's call in hideous warfare. It is right and just that we should honor and remember these heroes each year. In paying verbal tribute to them in public ceremonies, we should not forget that we owe them another duty which we can fulfill only by practicing another sort of patriotism. Abraham Lincoln in his wonderful Gettysburg Address set the pattern for this other type of tribute. He said:

"It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work for which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Lincoln spoke of the Civil War dead. Other wars have since added to the roll of "honored dead" and so increased the debt, duty and responsibility of the living. Memorial Day is an occasion for thinking of these things and studying the ways in which we, the living, may dedicate ourselves to the great task at hand.

DIPLOMAS AND EDUCATION An enterprising youth, said a commencement speaker, can acquire a fraternity pin, a letter on his sweater and enough friends to help him later on in business, and still successfully "elude an education." The speaker then went on to tell the marks of the educated man. They are appreciation of the values of life and ability to choose among them, awareness of beauty and goodness and truth, a unified life, ability to think, social sympathy and understanding, capacity for criticism in the sense of independent judgment, creative service.

Some of the young men in the graduating class to which he spoke understood him, because they had found out some of those things already and were on their way to achieving them. Others, those who had eluded education, probably thought the speaker was old-fashioned and sentimental. It is tragic that any young people should spend four years in college without setting their foot on the path of true education. It is partly a fault of the colleges themselves, one which many of them are trying hard to remedy. It is also a fault of society in general which has set up a few false standards of success which confuse instead of helping the youth of the land.

It may be a good many years before the political organization of Europe becomes anything like our own, which furnished the model. There will have to be a long course of training for quarrelsome, jealous races and nationalities before they are willing to function half as well as our own states. There will have to be a slow, preserving cultivation of international good will. All this is worth while. We might even say that it is necessary, if Europe is to survive and prosper. Time and perseverance may succeed.

When the time does come, with a pan-European Congress sitting at Geneva or elsewhere, legislating for the whole continent, there will still be tests of statesmanship such as our own similar situation has never offered. CHAPTER XLV. SHE had planned it so they arrived at Stony Wall after dark. More complications now since the inside of her childhood abode had been transplanted to her new and secret home. The thought of telling Ken, the realization that now she must let him know, nagged at her consciousness. Her head ached with worry yet she kept finding excuses for putting it off.

The furniture was unloaded and the van drove away and she was free to go back to The Lane. Yet she lingered looking about, planning, enthusiasm surging in her. Since it was so late she decided to remain overnight; there were eggs and coffee and canned milk in the cellar and she could make a meal tonight and be ready to begin settling things in the morning.

Ken was very gentle with her, meeting her at the gate, kissing her without a word. He held her in his arms gave her a long, inquiring look.

"No, I don't tell secrets, I don't tell that he is dead, I don't think I can ever—no, as I thought it—Ken, the knew, was relieved. He was expected to see her come in, and she was the same little girl who she always wore. Well, she could have been a shadow, a shadow of interest stealing through his puzzlement. What a kid he was. Forever intrigued by what he did not understand, by what was different and new.

Her heart gave an odd twist with this thought and a tingle traced along her spine. Premonition? She was getting jumpy from living with temperamental all about. She told herself, and laughed, though not quite mirthfully.

It was fun helping Elma fix up the haunted house. Like most of the old buildings around Haverford it had a huge fireplace and they cleaned this out and brought in brushwood and a lot of two at which they would roast chestnuts and apples and tell fortunes afterward in the embers.

Ken was deep in work and half minded not to go to the party at all. "It's just one of Elma's gags more before Spring. You certainly got me into something when you sent 'Artist' those sketches, girl friend."

"They don't want anything else now. Look; how do you like this? All that shading? Haven't done any of that before. Shall I take it out?"

Ken put his fingers on his forehead and looked at her. "Oh, leave it, Ken, do. You're doing better with this all the time. Everybody says so."

Wade and Nory—everbody. I don't mind if we stay home to-night. Still Elma expects to."

Nory came then and called Ken an old grind and said he would give them five minutes. "Opportunity's gone to return no more, it appears, after a paragon of the old building, around Haverford it had a huge fireplace and they cleaned this out and brought in brushwood and a lot of two at which they would roast chestnuts and apples and tell fortunes afterward in the embers."

There was no light in the ramshackle rooms but they wanted only candles and the glow from the gas. And for decorations, they filled the room with pumpkins and corn cobs and pumpkins and branches on which side private citizens glow them consistently. They lose their chief claim for sympathy—persecution. Allowed to make long speeches and lot of steam unchecked, they imagine they are accomplishing a whole lot, while public affairs run along and the community goes on with its work and play about as usual.

There is much wisdom in the statement of Representative Hamilton.

DR. COPELAND SAYS—

Treating a Cold

Dr. Copeland's Health Topic Today.

The Infection That Carries Over Into the Summer Months Is Serious, Warns Authority—Exercise and Care Will Help You Get Rid of It.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D. United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

No matter what the season, there seem to be colds going the rounds. But during the Spring months particularly, we hear of many bad epidemics of colds. No section of the country seems to be free from them.

During the past few weeks in New York City a real epidemic of colds has made life miserable for thousands of persons. Infected throats, with much sneezing and clogging in the nose, which hang on for weeks at a time, have worn down the resistance of those afflicted.

If a person has an infection, such as a cold, it means that a certain germ has attacked the nasal mucous membrane and that the toxins from that germ are being absorbed into the system. The mucous membrane cells then go through the reaction of inflammation. A person has a cold because the cells of his body are no longer normal.

When the toxin poisoning is sufficiently virulent all the muscle cells may be affected. Then you ache as a result. The relation between fatigue and infectious diseases has not been well known by the general public. With fatigue there usually come constipation and stomach disorder. You know how this is. Shivers and coughs and sneezes come to make life miserable.

Theatres

AT THE METROPOLITAN

Solution of the problem of taking pictures for foreign countries has been found, it has been learned through the production of an English and Spanish version of the same picture with separate casts.

Manager Mader of the Metropolitan Theatre, where Eddie Dowling is starring in "Blaze O' Glory," tells us that this enjoyable picture was made that way, and the procedure has been such a success that it is quite likely that Sono Art Productions, producers of the picture, will in the future cast their productions three or four times with as many nationalities to provide lingual versions for the export business.

Mr. Dowling, who came to us last year in "The Rainbow Man," has been attracting crowds to his present picture since it has been playing here, and those who have seen it, or who will see it, will undoubtedly be interested in knowing just how the two nationalities worked in turning out the production.

According to manager Mader following the completion of the script of "Blaze O' Glory," it was handed to a translator and the Spanish version was written. A cast was then selected for each version and two directors engaged. Only one set of scenes was used.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Garry Cooper here stars in another exciting and romantic role which is similar in appeal to his glamorous part in the Owen Wister classic "The Virginian" which comes to the Cliftona.

His leading woman is Mary Brian, the winsome Texas girl who made her film debut on the silent screen in "Peter Pan" and who appeared in a number of productions with increasingly distinctive success until the era of audible pictures brought her new fame. She has been seen and heard in seven all-talking films opposite such well-known leading men as Richard Arlen, Charles (Buddy) Rogers and Fredric March. She was the "schoolmarm" sweetheart of Gary Cooper in "The Virginian."

"Only the Brave" is an adventure tale of the old South in the days of the Civil war. Gary Cooper is a captain of cavalry on the Union side. Mary Brian is the charming daughter of a Virginia planter, who falls in love with the Northerner when he visits her home in the course of a dangerous mission as a spy.

In addition to the central love-theme of the production there are numerous glamorous features—the charming costumes of crinolines days, the soft speech of Southern beauties, the thrill of hand-to-hand warfare and military backgrounds.

The director is Frank Tuttle, young Yale man, who scored high with his production of the musical smash "Sweetie."

AT THE GRAND

Glenn Tryon with Eddie Gribbon, Gertrude Astor and Helen Wright, stars at the Grand theatre in "Dames Ahoy" a big picture of gobs and girls which will keep you laughing throughout the entire picture.

Since it was so late she decided to remain overnight; there were eggs and coffee and a dinner milk in the cellar and she could make a meal tonight and be ready to begin settling things in the morning.

She remained at Stony Wall two days. Two busy days filled with the work she loved most in all the world, settling a home. Hard work, for it took all her strength to tug some of the big pieces into place—the secretary at which Uncle Mat had done all his writing; the old maple highboy, the divan, the massive library table.

The books she piled in the upstairs room; there would be shelves put up for those. She would have them all around the living-room walls—make a library of it, a place of quiet, restful dignity. Nothing like this in The Lane—but she wished nothing of The Lane here.

She waited till twilight of the second day lest Mary see her and then pulled down the shades on pleasant, orderly rooms, drawing a sigh that she must leave.

Ken was very gentle with her, meeting her at the gate, kissing her without a word. He held her in his arms gave her a long, inquiring look.

"Was it hard, sweetheart?"

"No. He just fell asleep; I don't feel that he should. I shan't think this ever—act as if I thought it."

Ken, she knew, was relieved. He had expected to see her come in black and she wore the same little sports suit she always wore. Well, natural enough he should avoid the atmosphere of gloom, Ken who was so alive, so vibrant with the thought of all life had to give. Natural enough the tribe should feel this way.

Living went on as always. And within a week Elma had asked Eve to help arrange a Halloween party. They would hold it in a rattletrap old building everybody called the Haunted House and they would invite their new neighbor from the Hilltop House to be a guest.

"Who is she?" Eve asked remembering the workmen and the curtains floating in the breeze.

"You probably don't remember her," Elma explained. "She came for tea in town one day last winter. Lillas Allan. A tall girl, rather extreme."

"I do remember—how!" Eve giggled. Lillas Allan—the only woman who ever high-tailed Ken! Ken did not remember Lillas Allan's name when Eve told him about the party.

"But I'm sure you recall her."

Ken's face took on the puzzled look it had worn the afternoon of the tea party and he rubbed his chin thoughtfully. "A skinny femme," he recollected. "Long legs and lots of knee. Not many clothes—slinky. Living in Hilltop House, is she?"

"Elma said she's just back from Paris again. It seems she knows the folks that own the house so I suppose we'll have her among us for the winter at least. Hope you'll bear up, darling."

He said "Hi'm" and Eve fancied

the leaves had turned red and gold. "Now if only there's a moon," said Elma.

As it happened there was a moon, a pale white-silver moon half hidden by scudding clouds, throwing half lights and sudden shadows, giving The Lane a weird, unreal look. And a gusty wind blew continually, sighing in the trees tops, moaning at the eaves.

Ken was deep in work and half minded not to go to the party at all. "It's just one of Elma's go affairs. There'll be a hundred more before Spring. You certainly got me into something when you sent 'Artistry' those sketches, girl friend."

"They don't want anything else now. Look; how'd you like this? All that shading! Haven't done a shadow of interest stealing through his puzzlement. What a kid he was. Forever intrigued by what he did not understand, by what was different and new.

Her heart gave an odd twist with this thought and a tingle raced along her spine. Premonition? She was getting jumpy from living with temperament all about, she told herself. And laughed, though not quite mirthfully.

It was fun helping Elma fix up the Haunted House. Like most of the old buildings around Haverford, it had a huge fireplace and they cleaned this out and brought in brushwood and a log or two at which they would roast chestnuts and apples and tell fortunes afterward in the embers.

There was no light in the ramshackle rooms but they wanted only candles and the glow from the gate. And for decorations they rifled neighboring fields, bringing in corn shock and pumpkins and branches on which

Eve rushed to look, examined his work with her head on one side. "Oh, leave it, Ken, do. You're doing better with this all the time. Everybody says so. Wade and Nory—everybody. I don't mind if we stay home tonight. Still Elma expects us."

Nory came then and called Ken an old grind and said he would give them five minutes. "Opportunity's gone to return no more, it appears, after a particularly vicious knock. Afraid I'll have to buy me a car some day. So you can have the pleasure of carting me over if you hurry."

Seen the magnificent Miss Allan's green roadster? My dearest! Green as the Emerald Isle itself and all trimmed up with monograms and things."

Ken put his cryonics aside suddenly and went to change his collar.

DR. COPELAND SAYS—

Treating a Cold

Dr. Copeland's Health Topic Today.

The Infection That Carries Over Into the Summer Months Is Serious, Warns Authority—Exercise and Care Will Help You Get Rid of It.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

NO matter what the season, there seem to be colds going the rounds. But during the Spring months particularly, we hear of many bad epidemics of colds. No section of the country seems to be free from them.

During the past few weeks in New York City a real epidemic of colds has made life miserable for thousands of persons. Infected throats, with much sneezing, symptoms which hang on for weeks at a time, have worn down the resistance of those afflicted.

If a person has an infection, such as a cold, it means that a certain germ has attacked the nasal mucous membrane and that the toxins from that germ are being absorbed into the system. The mucous membrane cells then go through the reaction of inflammation. A person has become sick because certain cells of his body are no longer normal.

When the toxin poisoning is sufficiently violent all the muscle cells may be affected. Then you ache as a result.

The relation between fatigue and infectious diseases has not been well known by the general public. With fatigue there usually come constipation and stomach disorder. You know how this is. Shivers and coughs and sneezes come to make life miserable.

Exercise helps to eliminate the body poisons, while it puts the abdominal muscles into better condition. The circulation of the blood is quickened.

You should eat the most simple food and stay away from places of amusement where the air is contaminated. Sleep with all the windows open. Be warmly enough dressed in changeable weather, and if it is warm weather do not sit in drafts.

Rest is one of nature's greatest remedies. It is impossible to try to throw off the infections of a cold and to use up your energy in hard work all at the same time. Children, as well as adults, who have had colds should have long hours of sleep and rest in order to give the body cells recuperative power. The fatigue element lowers resistance to disease, and this should be avoided.

In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of the expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Relief from Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing a dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 at 25c at the nearest Rexall Store, Hamilton & Ryan.—Adv.

keep a checking account? Here's why. ONE: you'll find it convenient and safe to carry a small checkbook rather than currency. TWO: your check stubs are a simple, effective bookkeeping system in miniature. THREE: a cancelled check provides an unquestionable receipt for the disbursement.

PETTIT-SINCLAIR'S LOSE TO DOGGY WARD'S AGGREGATION

Doggy Ward's fast-stepping Davis recreation ball tossers continued their winning ways Wednesday evening by drubbing the Pettit-Sinclair's 12 to 2 at Mason's field. A large crowd was in attendance as this encounter was the only one played last evening.

Three reasons might be given for the lop-sided score of the contest. In the first place the tire and oil men appeared at the field minus their star hurler, Eddie Watson. Boone Pettit started and was treated unceremoniously in his stay of one frame. Howard White, who had pitched the evening before, took up the hill duties and he was treated in almost the same way.

The second reason is the poor support the two Pettit-Sinclair pitchers received from their infield.

The third is the timeliness of the Wardmen's hitting. Many times runners would be on the paths ready to cavort over the marker when a clean hit would be forthcoming.

DAVIS TOUGH
Jaggy Davis was on the mound for the Wardmen and hurled good ball from start to finish. He handed out only six hits and the two runs. The Pettit-Sinclair's scored came after his team had a substantial lead.

Buck Hutchinson, Ward's short-fielder, pounded the apple for four hits, one a double, and crossed the plate the same number of times. Hutchinson has been hitting like a whirlwind and in his last four games has chalked up 11 hits.

The first round of the recreation league ended with this contest with the Coca-Cola and the Gordon Tires tied for first place and the Ward's in third place.

ROBINS MAY GO INTO FIRST PLACE WITH THE CARDINALS

BY COPELAND C. BURG.
NEW YORK, May 29.—If rain, snow and low visibility don't interfere the Brooklyn Robins will take advantage of an open date in their schedule this afternoon to battle the New York Giants in a game where victory will push the Robins into a tie with the St. Louis Cardinals for the National League lead.

Manager Wilbert Robinson may decide to use Adolfo Luque, while McGraw will likely put forth Mr. Genewich.

No other games are scheduled in the National circuit today and Washington at New York and Boston at Philadelphia are the only American League skirmishes on the tapis.

Bad weather forced postponement of all games yesterday except two in the National and one in the American League.

A triple by Hack Wilson and a fluke homer by Kiki Cuyler contributed somewhat to the Cubs' 6-to-5 win over Cincinnati, while

Socks Leibold again won for Boston, the Braves defeating Philadelphia 5 to 1. He allowed only six single-banglers. Berger got his 11th homer of the season off Collins of the Phils.

Walter Stewart, southpaw, twanged out his seventh victory for the St. Louis Browns, downing the Tigers 4 to 2. Blue's double, a sacrifice by O'Rourke and singles by Manush, Kress and Schulte scored the two winning runs in the eighth. Earl Whitmill allowed the Browns nine hits, while Stewart yielded six.

Miss Clara Carr of Kenton is a guest of her sister, Dr. Isa E. Carr of W. Main street.

The condition of Miss Myrtle Root who was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, Tuesday is not much improved.

TWO TRADES CAUSE TALK

National League Roused By Exchanges McGraw Made With Cincinnati Reds.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 29.—As a result of a couple of trades with the Cincinnati Reds, whereby he generously gave up two men he couldn't use for three that he could and would, John McGraw is being upbraided today throughout the National League wheel as the unseen Czar who is running the organization as a one-man league. They seem to feel that something ought to be done about it and I can assure you that, as soon as McGraw can find another owner just as accommodating as Mr. Sidney Weil, something will be done. He then will trade a buttonhole for a shirt.

As a matter of fact, the trade of Larry Benton for Hughie Critz and that of Pat Crawford for Pete Donahue and Ethan Allen aren't as bad as all that. In some respects, they are worse.

The Critz deal for instance, gave the Giants the one thing they needed—a ranking second baseman—and the Reds the one thing they already had—a pitcher who couldn't win. But the hysteria over the Crawford-Donahue-Allen affair is hardly justified by the facts, which show Donahue to be one of those pitchers I've just been talking about. Allen to be a rather dubious outfielder and Crawford a sort of general hired man who tries to do everything and occasionally succeeds in doing something.

CUBS' HERO

The Old Hoss of Alabama, Riggs Stephenson, has a lame arm, but he did more than his share in Sunday's game with the Cardinals. Although the Cubs went down to defeat, 6 to 3, Riggs accounted for one Cub run with a homer, walked once and made two great catches in the field.

DeWitt Adkins of Los Angeles, Calif. is a guest of his sister, Mrs. Maud Davis of Watt street, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Price and son Jimmy, will go to Ironton for a visit over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Hughes.

Miss Laura Mantle of E. Main street will spend the week-end as a guest of her cousin, Miss Ethel Garrison, near Marysville.

DON'T BE A SLAVE TO LAXATIVES

Mrs. E. Gebbard, 301 W. 5th St., Newport, Ky., says, "My husband and I were actually slaves to laxatives, continually dosing ourselves with something to relieve constipation. Just couldn't stop. It got to be a habit. We even gave our children laxatives in candy. Little did we realize that we were only aggravating and not reaching the cause of the constipation. Headaches, biliousness, indigestion and constipation still continued. Our druggist recommended Carter's Little Liver Pills. He said these little vegetable pills would tone up the liver, stir up the bile, which, acting as an antiseptic, keeps the food from rotting, and poisoning the blood. They are not habit forming and thoroughly cleanse the upper and lower bowel. Laxatives fail to do this." Carter's Little Liver Pills are sold at all Druggists in 25c red paper pkgs.

THERE'S MORE TO THIS TIRE THAN Mileage, MISTER!

Low price, for one thing . . . and that significant name "Goodrich" on the sidewall!

MILEAGE? Sure there's mileage in the Cavalier! Plenty of it . . . and every bit the kind that lets you forget you've got tires on your car!

But mileage is only part of the story of Cavaliers. There are low prices to think about, too. Real savings, in cold hard cash.

And right there on the sidewall that significant name Goodrich! Assurance of quality . . . value . . . ability to take punishment!

For Goodrich puts its name on only one kind of tire . . . the kind that stands up in spite of punishment, high speeds, bad roads. The kind that takes its own good time about wearing out . . . and keeps you from worrying about it.

That's the kind of a tire the Cavalier is. Big, Husky. Oversize in air cushion and tread thickness. Stout in the sidewalls. Water-cured for through-and-through toughness. And mighty good looking on your car.

You can forget about mileage. That goes for granted with any Goodrich Tire. Just remember the low prices and the fact that they're backed by Goodrich. Come in . . . see them. We have them in all sizes . . . including a couple for trucks.

MEMORIAL DAY OF PROUD MEMORIES

Here is a day dedicated to the great host of those who have passed on and particularly to that great and noble army of those who have laid down their lives in the defense of this country of ours.

In these men and women, America has indeed something of which she can be proud, and while the nation honors her dead, a great and sincere pride must perforce shine through the nation's tears, for these who gave to the very uttermost, gave even their last and most precious earthly possession, life itself. The homage we pay them is little enough honor and reward.
